How to Complete the Customs Automated Processing System (CAPS) T-12 Document/ Caribbean Single Administrative Document

(Example at the end of this text)

All goods imported or exported must be declared to Customs. With the exception of some goods carried as passenger's baggage or some postal parcels, the declaration should be made using the revised T-12 Customs entry form. Details of the exceptions can be obtained from Customs.

It is important to know that the lodging of a declaration by an importer or a representative indicates that the person concerned is declaring the goods in question for the Customs procedure shown on the document. In doing this, the declarant is accepting responsibility under the law for the

- (a) accuracy of the information given in the declaration;
- (b) authenticity of the documents attached to the declaration; and
- (c) observance of all the obligations necessary under the declared procedure.

There is a brief pre-printed declaration on the form as to the accuracy of the information it contains, but the action of signing the document and presenting it to Customs indicates a full acceptance of all responsibilities. The form may be filled in by hand but must be legible, in ink, and in block capitals. The form may also be completed by typewriter or computer printer. There should be no erasures or overwriting on the forms, any alteration should be made by crossing out the incorrect detail and adding those required at the side or above the original. Any alterations made this way should be initialled. The form must be signed before presentation to Customs. Customs may require a fresh declaration to be completed if the original is considered to be illegible.

Details of the information to be provided on the form are explained below. The headings refer to boxes on the form.

The manner of authorisation is a matter of arrangement between importers and their agents, but in giving authority to an agent the importer will be assumed to have given authority to the clerks and servants authorised by the agent, to carry out all the Customs business of the importer.

(i) Customs Procedure Codes

Customs Procedure Codes (CPC's) identify the customs regimes to which goods are being entered and from which they have been removed (when this applies). The lists of Customs Procedure Codes have been compiled from lists supplied by the BVI and other national administrations and represents procedures applicable throughout the Organisation of Eastern Caribbean States (OECS) and wider region.

Effort has been given to produce a comprehensive list, but it is expected that revision may be necessary in the light of experience. Users are advised to check with the Customs Entry Processing Unit for assistance in cases of uncertainty.

The Structure of the Codes

The code consists of two parts. The first identifies the regime e.g. Imports, Exports, Warehousing for which the goods are entered and the second part further identifies how the goods are to be processed with the regime.

The complete codes are known as Customs Procedure Codes because as the name implies they identify the procedure that Customs should apply to the declared goods.

The codes used are made up from an alphabetic character and three numeric characters. The alphabetic characters are C, E and S and represent:

C = Goods for Consumption (Import)

E = Goods for Export

S = Goods entering a duty/tax Suspense regime.

The first of the numeric characters comes from the list:

Outright exportation	—	1
Temporary exportation	—	2
Re-exportation	—	3
Home Use	—	4
Temporary importation	—	5
Re-importation	—	6
Customs Warehousing	—	7
Transit	—	8
Other procedures	—	9

Use of the alphabetic character and the first number identifies the Regime i.e. C4 — import to Home Use, E1 — export.

The next two numbers represent the procedure under a particular regime. As far as possible these numbers reflect the logic applied to the initial coding for the regimes but in some instances the logic has to be varied because of the number of procedures involved.

General Rules for the Interpretation of the Harmonized System

Classification of goods in the Nomenclature shall be governed by the following principles:

1. The titles of sections, Chapters and sub-Chapters are provided for ease of reference only; for legal purposes, classification shall be determined according to the terms of the headings and any relative section or Chapter notes and, provided such headings or notes do not otherwise require, according to the following provisions:
    - (a) Any reference in a heading to an article shall be taken to include a reference to that article incomplete or unfinished, provided that, as presented; the incomplete or unfinished article has the essential character of the complete or finished article. It shall also be taken to include a reference to that article complete or finished (or falling to be classified as complete or finished by virtue of this Rule), presented unassembled or disassembled.
    - (b) Any reference in a heading to a material or substance shall be taken to include a reference to mixtures or combinations of that material or substance with other materials or substances. Any reference to goods of a given material or substance shall be taken to include a reference to goods consisting wholly or partly of the material or substance. The classification of goods consisting of more than one material or substance shall be according to the principles of Rule 3.
  3. When by application of Rule 2(b) or for any other reason, goods are, prima facie, classifiable under two or more headings, classification shall be effected as follows:
    - (a) the heading which provides the most specific description shall be preferred to headings providing a more general description. However, when two or more headings each refer to part only of the materials or substances contained in mixed or composite goods or to part only of the items in a set put up for retail sale, those headings are to be regarded as equally specific in relation to those goods, even if one of them gives a more complete or precise description of the goods.
    - (b) Mixtures, composite goods consisting of different materials or made up of different components, and goods put up in sets for retail sale, which cannot be classified by reference to 3(a), shall be classified as if they consisted of the material or component which gives them their essential character, insofar as this criterion is applicable.
    - (c) When goods cannot be classified by reference to 3(a) or 3(b), they shall be classified under the heading which occurs last in numerical order among those which equally merit consideration.

4. Goods which cannot be classified in accordance with the above Rules shall be classified under the heading appropriate to the goods to which they are most akin.
5. In addition to the foregoing provisions, the following Rules shall apply in respect of the goods referred to:
  - (a) Camera cases, musical instrument cases, gun cases, drawing instrument cases, necklace cases and similar containers, specially shaped or fitted to contain a specific article or set of articles, suitable for long-term use and presented with the articles for which they are intended, shall be classified with the articles when they are of a kind normally sold with it. This Rule does not, however, apply to containers which give the whole its essential character;
  - (b) Subject to the Rule 5(a), packing materials and packing containers presented with the goods in it shall be classified with the goods if they are of a kind normally used for packing those goods. However, this provision does not apply when such packing materials or packing containers are clearly suitable for repetitive use.
6. For legal purposes, the classification of goods in the subheadings of a heading shall be determined according to the terms of those subheadings and any related subheading notes and, mutatis mutandis, to the above Rules, on the understanding that only subheadings at the same level are comparable. For the purposes of this Rule the relative section and Chapter notes also apply, unless the context otherwise requires.

Non-profit organisations play an essential and complementary role in the social and economic development of society. Their efforts complement the activity of the government and business sectors in providing essential services, comfort and hope to those in need. The ongoing international campaign against terrorist financing has demonstrated that terrorist organisations exploit the non-profit sector to raise funds, among other things.

The Government of the Virgin Islands recognises this fact and seeks to facilitate the work and contribution of non-profit organisations through enactment of an appropriate legal and regulatory framework that provides stability and certainty for non-profit organisations and increases public confidence in the work and programmes of such organisations. The Government of the Virgin Islands will support initiatives that increase public understanding of the role and contributions of non-profit organisations.

By creating an environment in which nonprofit organisations can flourish, and freely and independently engage in activities for the benefit of the general public the Government of the Virgin Islands seeks to increase the understanding of philanthropy in the Virgin Islands, thereby promoting the betterment of Virgin Islands society, while protecting the non-profit sector from terrorist abuse.

In 2012, the FATF published its revised International Standards on Combating Money Laundering and the Financing of Terrorism and Proliferation. The FATF Recommendations are used by more than 180 governments around the world to guide their efforts to combat terrorist financing and money laundering and provide a benchmark to assess each country's terrorist financing and anti-money laundering regime through a process of mutual evaluations.

Recommendations 8 of the FATF International Standards on Combating Money Laundering and the Financing of Terrorism and Proliferation concerns non-profit organisations. It requires countries to review the adequacy of laws and regulations that relate to entities that can be abused for the financing of terrorism.

It is against this background that the proposed Non-Profit Organisations Act, 2012 is premised. The Act seeks to register and monitor the operations of non-profit organisations in the Virgin Islands.

This Act consists of six Parts.

Section 30 provides for employees of the Agency and members of the Board to keep confidential any information relating to a non-profit organisation, except as required by a court or for the purposes of an inquiry under this Act.

Section 31 deals with transitional provisions. It would provide for existing non-profit organisations to register within ninety days of the Act coming into force. It would also provide for registered Friendly Societies to be treated as non-profit organisations for the purposes of this Act.

Section 32 provides for the Minister, after consultation with the Board, and on the approval of Cabinet to amend the schedules to the Act by Order.

Section 33 provides for the non-applicability of this Act to organisations licensed under the Banks and Trust Companies Act.

Section 34 provides a body corporate as well as officers of a body corporate to be liable for offence committed under the Act.

This Act was introduced in the House of Assembly on the 13th day of September, 2012, taken through its remaining stages and passed on the 11th day of October, 2012.

And I give you clearly to understand that you have nothing to hope from any promise of favour and nothing to fear from any threat that may have been held out to you to induce you to make any admission or confession of your guilt, but whatever you now say may be given in evidence on your trial notwithstanding such promise or threat"

(c) A new trial shall not be granted or any judgment reversed by reason of the ruling of any court that the stamp upon any document is insufficient or that the document does not require a stamp.

170. The Court of Appeal may adjourn the hearing of the appeal and may upon the hearing thereof confirm, reverse or modify the decision of the Magistrate or remit the matter with the opinion of the Court thereon to the Magistrate or may make such other order in the matter as the said Court may think just and may by such order exercise any power which the Magistrate might have exercised and such order shall have the same effect and may be enforced in the same manner as if it had been made by the Magistrate:

Provided that the Court of Appeal may, if of opinion that a different sentence should have been passed quash the sentence passed by the Magistrate and pass such other sentence warranted by law (whether more or less severe) in substitution therefor as the Court of Appeal thinks should have been passed.

171. The Court of Appeal may make such order as to the costs to be paid by either party as the said Court may think just, and in the event of costs being allowed the Court of Appeal shall fix the amount at a sum not exceeding fifty dollars according to the importance of the appeal, or the length of the time occupied by the hearing thereof, and the sum so fixed shall cover all fees of office and all fees of counsel or solicitor: Provided that no Magistrate shall be liable to any costs in respect of any appeal against his decision:

Defects in proceedings under appeal.

176. On an appeal no objection shall be taken or allowed to any proceeding in a Magistrate's Court for any defect or error which might have been amended by that Court, or to any complaint, summons, warrant, or other process to or of that Court, for any alleged defect therein in substance or in form, or for any variance between any complaint or summons and the evidence adduced in support thereof in that Court, or by reason only of the absence of the seal of the Magistrate on any such process:

Provided that if any error, defect, or variance mentioned in this section appears to the Court of Appeal at the hearing of an appeal to be such that the appellant has been thereby deceived or misled, the Court of Appeal may either refer the cause back to the Magistrate with directions to re-hear and determine it, or reverse the decision under appeal, or may make any other order for disposal of the cause which justice requires.

Error or defect in recognisance.

177. Where any recognisance or recognisances which shall have been entered into within the time by law required before any Magistrate for the purpose of complying with any such condition of appeal shall appear to the Court of Appeal to have been insufficiently entered into, or to be otherwise defective or invalid, it shall be lawful for such Court, if it shall so think fit, to permit the substitution of a new and sufficient recognisance or new and sufficient recognisances to be entered into before such Court in the place of such insufficient, defective, or invalid recognisance or recognisances, and for that purpose to allow such time, and make such examination, and impose such terms as to payment of costs to the respondent or respondents, as to such Court shall appear just and reasonable; and such substituted recognisance or recognisances shall be as valid and effectual

182. If the Magistrate be satisfied by evidence upon oath that it is probable that such person will not attend to give evidence unless compelled to do so then instead of issuing such summons as aforesaid the Magistrate may issue his warrant in the first instance.

Witness refusing to be sworn or to answer.

183. If any person attending as a witness or so summoned or brought upon a warrant as aforesaid refuses to be examined on oath concerning the premises or refuses to take such oath, or having taken such oath refuses to answer any lawful question put to him without giving just excuse for so doing the Magistrate may by warrant commit such person to prison there to remain and be imprisoned for any period not exceeding ten days unless he in the meantime consents to be examined and to answer concerning the premises.

When depositions may be read at the trial.

186. If it is proved upon oath before any Magistrate that any person is dangerously ill and unable to travel, or is about to leave the Territory for a period extending beyond the time when the accused if committed for trial would be tried and that such person is able and willing to give material information as to any offence which such Magistrate is not empowered to try summarily and with which any person has been charged before a Magistrate (whether the preliminary enquiry has or has not been held or is in progress, but not after the accused has been discharged) unless by order of a Judge, the Magistrate may take the deposition of such person at the place where such person is lying sick or if such person is about to leave the Territory as aforesaid at the Magistrate's Court House, in the manner prescribed by this Act, and shall, after taking it, sign it, adding to it by way of heading, a statement of the reason for taking it, and of the day and place on and at which it was taken, and of the names of the persons, if any, present at the taking thereof.

Such deposition to be admissible in evidence.

189. Every deposition so taken shall be a deposition taken in the case to which it relates, and shall be admissible in evidence on the same conditions as other depositions:

Provided that it shall be admissible against the accused; although it may have been taken in his absence, and may not have been read over to the witness in his presence, and although neither he nor his counsel or solicitor had an opportunity of cross-examining the witness, if it is proved that the accused having received such notice as aforesaid that such deposition was about to be taken, refused or neglected to be present, or to cause his counsel or solicitor to be present when it was taken, or that it was taken at the Magistrate's Court House:

Provided that at any time before the sale of goods under a warrant of distress for the said sum the said Magistrate or any other Magistrate may cancel or mitigate the forfeiture upon the person liable applying and giving security to the satisfaction of the Magistrate for the future performance of the conditions of his recognisance and paying or giving security for the payment of the costs incurred in respect of the forfeiture or upon such other conditions as the Magistrate may think just.

This Bill seeks to establish an Integrity Commission which would assist in achieving the Government's objectives to promote good governance, to enhance ethical conduct of public officials and to strengthen the prevention and detection of corrupt acts by persons in public life.

The Bill consists of seven parts.

Part I (clauses 1 - 3) provides for preliminary matters.

The preliminary provisions would provide for the short title and commencement of the Act, as well as define various terms used throughout the Act. It would also provide for the Act to apply to every person in public life.

Part II (clauses 4 - 13) would provide for the establishment of the Integrity Commission. (2) An Order in Council under paragraph (a) of the foregoing subsection may as respects the colony for the cesser of inclusion of which in the Federation provision is made by the Order, and an Order in Council under paragraph (b) of that subsection may as respects each colony included in the Federation immediately before the dissolution thereof,—

- (a) determine, or provide for the determination of, the laws which, after the cesser or, as the case may be, the dissolution, are (subject to any amendment or repeal by the legislature of the colony or other competent authority) to remain valid as respects the colony notwithstanding the cesser or, as the case may be, the dissolution;
- (b) adapt or modify, or empower any such authority as may be specified in the Order to adapt or modify, to such extent as Her Majesty in Council or that authority, as the case may be, thinks necessary or expedient in view of the cesser or, as the case may be, the dissolution, any laws having effect in the colony and any other laws relating or referring to the colony or the Federation.

Power of Her Majesty to provide for interim performance of functions heretofore performed by Federal authorities for benefit of federated colonies.

2.—(1) With a view to securing that, notwithstanding the exclusion of colonies from, or the dissolution of, the Federation, the performance of functions performed by the Federal authorities for the benefit of the colonies which at the passing of this Act are included in the Federation is maintained pending the making, apart from this section, of arrangements in that behalf of a permanent nature, Her Majesty may by Order in Council provide for the establishment of an authority to be charged, or authorities to be severally charged, with the duty of performing for the benefit of those colonies, or of such of them as may be specified in the Order, any such functions (being functions which at the passing of this Act are, for the benefit of all or any of those colonies, performed by any of the Federal authorities) as may be specified in the Order, and such other (if any) functions as may be so specified.

3.—(1) Her Majesty may by Order in Council make such provision as appears to Her necessary or expedient—

Compensation scheme for officers of Federal public service.

(a) for securing that the payment of a pension, gratuity, allowance or other like benefit to a person in respect of service of his, or that of another's, in the public service of the Federation is not prejudiced by reason of a colony's ceasing to be included in the Federation or of the dissolution of the Federation;

(b) for securing the making of payments to or in respect of persons who, at the passing of this Act, are serving in that public service and, by reason of the happening of either of the events aforesaid, lose office or, by reason of being transferred to some other service, become in a worse position in respect of the conditions of their service as compared with the conditions of service formerly obtaining with respect to them;

(c) for securing the payment to or in respect of such persons as are mentioned in the last foregoing paragraph who are transferred as therein mentioned (whether or not they become in a worse position as so mentioned) of sums in respect of disturbance suffered by them in consequence of being so transferred.

(2) Her Majesty may, by Order in Council, provide for the establishment for the relevant colonies or for any two or more of them of courts additional to that whose establishment is authorised by the foregoing subsection, being courts constituted in such manner and having such jurisdiction (whether civil or criminal, original or appellate) as may be determined by or under the Order.

- (a) for the purposes of compliance with a UN obligation,
  - (b) for the purposes of compliance with any other international obligation, or

- (a) compliance with a UN obligation, or other international obligation, specified in the regulations, or
  - (b) a particular purpose that is within subsection (2).
- (4) Section 2 contains additional requirements in relation to regulations stating a purpose within subsection (2) above.

- (12) For the purposes of this section a provision of relevant regulations is an “asset-freeze provision” if and to the extent that it—
  - (a) imposes a prohibition or requirement for a purpose mentioned in section 3(1)(a), (b) or (d), or

- (6) In this section “a provision of retained EU sanctions law” means a provision of retained EU law which corresponds to any provision that by virtue of any of sections 3 and 5 to 7 could be made by regulations under section 1 in relation to designated persons.

    - (i) the purpose of the EU provision which relates to persons in that list (see subsections (4) and (5) below), and

- (4) In subsections (1) and (3) any reference to the “purpose” of any EU provision is to such purpose, or purposes, as may be prescribed in relation to that provision by regulations made by an appropriate Minister.
- (5) Any purpose prescribed under subsection (4) must be a purpose that it is reasonable to assume was the purpose (or one of the purposes) of the provision in question.

  - (a) to inform the person to whom it relates that the direction has been given, and
  - (b) where the direction is under section 34(3)(a), to include with that information a brief statement of the matters that the Minister knows, or has reasonable grounds to suspect, in relation to that person which have led the Minister to give the direction.
- (9) The regulations may authorise the statement required by virtue of subsection (8)(b) to exclude matters where the Minister considers that they should be excluded –
  - (a) in the interests of national security or international relations,
  - (b) for reasons connected with the prevention or detection of serious crime in the United Kingdom or elsewhere, or
  - (c) in the interests of justice,(but the regulations may not authorise the Minister to provide no such statement).
- (10) The regulations need not require a person to be notified of an intention to make a direction under section 34.
- (11) In this section –
  - “EU sanctions list” has the same meaning as in section 34;
  - “EU provision” means –
    - (a) a provision of retained EU sanctions law (within the meaning of section 34), or

- (4) On a request under this section the appropriate Minister to whom the request is made must decide whether or not to comply with the request.
- (5) An appropriate Minister may by regulations make provision about the procedure to be followed in connection with a request under this section or section 37.
- (6) Regulations made under subsection (5) in relation to a request under this section or section 37 must require –
  - (a) the decision on any such request to be made as soon as reasonably practicable after the receipt by the appropriate Minister dealing with the request of the information needed for making the decision, and
  - (b) the person who made the request to be informed of the decision and the reasons for it as soon as reasonably practicable after the decision is made.
- (7) The regulations may authorise matters to be excluded from the reasons given for the decision where the appropriate Minister who made the decision considers that those matters should be excluded –
  - (a) in the interests of national security or international relations,
  - (b) for reasons connected with the prevention or detection of serious crime in the United Kingdom or elsewhere, or
  - (c) in the interests of justice,(but the regulations may not authorise that Minister to provide no reasons).

- (3) Where a person has made a request under this section by virtue of being on an EU sanctions list, the person may make no further request under this section by virtue of being on that list unless the grounds on which the further request is made are or include that there is a significant matter which has not previously been considered by the Secretary of State.
- (4) On a request under this section the Secretary of State must decide whether or not to comply with the request.
- (5) For the purposes of this section a person’s name is “removed from the relevant UN list” if the person ceases to be named (by the Security Council or a subsidiary organ of the Security Council) for the purposes of the Resolution so far as it provides for the taking of the measures in question.
